The family history of Baron
Charles Antoine DE THIERRY and Mm DE LAVILLE

Charles Antoine DE THIERRY during period 1788 married (Mm) Marie Louise Pierrette de LAVILLE daughter of Marquis de Monbion on Marie Antionettes Bounty, Paris. Soon after they fled to Holland to escape mobs of Paris.

In Paris in March 1788 the mobs of commoners had sent most of the French Royalists to Lady Guillotine including King Richard. Young Baron DE THIERRY set himself the task of weeding out the traitors from the Royalists.

The widow Mm DE LAVILLE, daughter of the Marquis DE MONBION, came to Paris to see her daughter married on Marie Antoinettes Bounty met a different fate. She took refuge in a Paris Church. Fifteen pikes pinned her to the Alter as this terrified woman begged for mercy.

Mobs of commoners would gather each day to watch and cheer as each Royalist lost his head. The first DE THIERRY to lose his head does so in 1792 and before the year is out 14 more of the DE THIERRY family met with the same fate.

Young Baron DE THIERRY and his newly wed wife Marie were the only DE THIERRY to escape the guillotines. They were safely in Grave, Holland when King Louis was beheaded. She was heavily in child at this time.

Charles and Marie oldest child Caroline DE THIERRY was born about 1791 in Laque at the Orange palace Holland just after her parents fled from the Paris mobs.

Charles and Marie had a son Charles Philip Hippolytus DE THIERRY who was born about 23 April 1793 in Grave Holland.

The DE THIERRY family left Holland and arrived in England on 14 November 1794 and by 1795 the family were living in Woodford Bridge.

It was upon their arrival in England that Charles started to use the title of BARON.

The Baron and Marie had a son Louis DE THIERRY who was born about 1795 in Woodford Bridge London.

In 1796 the Baron took his oldest son Charles then aged 3 years to visit Comte d'ARTOIS the younger brother of King Louis XVI of France who was living at Holyrood House in Edinburgh Scotland. It was here that Charles became the Godson of Comte d'Artois.

Between 1796 and 1802 the De Thierry family lived in various areas of Southern England. Other homes included 1796 Marylebone Park, No 1 & 4 New Road London 1798 an apartment in Northern Street near Great Portland Road London, later Weymouth, Bath and Blanford and returning to London around 1801.

The Baron and Baroness had a son Francis DE THIERRY who was born about 1797 in England.

The Baron and Baroness had a son James DE THIERRY who was born about 1804 in England.

The Baron and Baroness had a son Frederick DE THIERRY who was born about 1807 in England.

Someone said that the Baron and Baroness had another child Cecile DE THIERRY who was born in London and died of typhoid but I have been unable to located information confirmation.

The Baron moved back to France and around 1814 and the Baroness remained in Paris when the Baron returned to England.

In 1820 the Baron was living alone in England.

The Baron and Baroness died in either France or England but dates and details are unknown.

Caroline first married very young about 1808 when she was 17 Charles Antoine Pierre Henri Vicomte DE FROTTE half brother of the Royalist General Assassinated by the police of Napoleon in 1880. The marriage was not recognized by the FROTTE family. FROTTE was a captain paymaster in the regiment of the Duke of Brunswick in the service of Great Britain and was killed in Portugal in 1813. He left a daughter Georgina born in 1809. Caroline received a widow's pension from the British Government and remarried Gardozo Pinto TAVERA in January 1821 in London. TAVERA was a rich landed proprietor in Portugal in the Amarantha district about a dozen kilometres from Oporto. He took part in the retreat from Moscow in one of the two regiments of cavalry of the famous Portuguese Legion commanded by General Don Pedro dal Meida, Marquis da Lordna. He was drowned in 1882 between Oporto and Lisbon and his wife inherited his estate. In the meantime Georgina had been brought up at Worthing near Brighton and in 1825 married one BATTIER ex-officer of the British cavalry at the British Embassy in Paris the only witness who signed the marriage contract being Laly-TOLLENDAL an old friend of the family. A few years later Georgina lost her husband and was left with three children, two boys and a girl also named Georgina. Nothing is known of what happened to the boys but Georgina I and Georgina II first went to Lisbon to live with Caroline but mother and daughter proved incompatible and finally separated. Georgina II married Nouno Bento de Brito TABORDO ancestor of the present Count of Castello BRANCO.

Louis became a captain in the Royal Marines in 1810 to 1826. He took part in the American war in 1812. Some time after 1826 Louis retired from the Royal Marines (invalided out) and married Frances ALLEN reputed to be a natural daughter of George the First. If this was so her mother could well have been a rival of Daphne du Maurier. Louis eventually in Genoa where he dealt wholesale in coal from Cardiff a business that was continued by one of his sons. The business prospered but in the hands of his children Louis' fortune was quickly dissipated the business foundered and the family dispersed. Some returned to England and some remained in Italy. It is said that some emigrated to Canada and settled in or near Vancouver.

Francis became a cadar in the navy about the same time as his brother. As a former midshipman in the Royal Navy he left the Navy and devoted himself to promoting his brother Charles Philippes's schemes. From 1823 to 1837 he was attached to the French Department of Foreign Affairs for a time as Cabinet Courier to Portugal (about 1830) and possibly also may have been appointed to some post in Baltimore. He was active in his brother's affairs between 1837 and 1842 when de Thierry was agitating for French support for his New Zealand venture. Francis was a friend of D'ANTRAIQUES and married a Scottish lady about 1839 Elizabeth DUNCAN. A daughter born in Paris in 1840 survived only one year but a son born a little later was more fortunate. Francis was ruined by the collapse of DE THIERRY's schemes and took his own life in 1842.

James DE THIERRY known as the Chevalier DE THIERRY married Alexandrine Francoise Dieudonne de Gaudechart DE QUERRIEU who was allied to the Rohan Rochefort family. She was related in one way or another to most of the royal houses of Europe including the House of Hapsburg. Between 1830 and 1842 he had three daughters and three sons and appears to have led a very settled life at Creil near Chantilly. In 1842 James lost his wife. In 1851 he married again this time 1851 Irma LOMPREDÉ a brunette of 22 or 23 from l'Ariege who appears to have belonged to a different social stratum from that of his first wife. This second marriage was regarded by the rest of the family as a folly only a part compensated by James financial independence.

Frederick Auguste who also styled himself Chevalier DE THIERRY was appointed Cabinet Courier by de MOLE and remained in the Department of Foreign Affairs for more than 30 years serving mainly in Russia and Portugal. He married a certain Ann JOSEPH in 1827 or 1828 but his wife left him with his daughter Georgina born in November 12 1828. He subsequently married Anne Sophie Pauline ROLAND from whom he had a second daughter Isabelle that did not survive. In 1850 his daughter Georgina married an officer of the Army of Africa, Jean Baptiste Leon de la Blanchardie De Laudeypie. Frederick was left a widower again in 1860 and married once more this time to a widow Francoise Pauline PAQUEREAU. ### Miscellaneous DE THIERRY information

- The order of Baronage stated is only partly correct.
  - 1st Baron Charles Antoine DE THEIRRY
  - 2nd Baron Charles Philippe DE THEIRRY
  - 3rd Baron Charles Thomas DE THEIRRY
  - 4th Baron Charles Richard DE THEIRRY (declined)
  - 4th Baron Frederick James DE THEIRRY
  - 5th Baron Lionel Nye DE THEIRRY (on the death of Lionel Nye on 28 November 1941 the senior male line was extinct, the Baronage passed to the eldest male descent of the Baron Charles Philippe's second son George Hammond I Line)
  - 6th Baron George Hammond DE THEIRRY
  - 7th Baron Charles Harvey DE THEIRRY
  - 8th Baron Reynolds Harvey DE THEIRRY alias Boy of Pirongia

The Baron Charles Philippe Hippolyte de THIERRY was not able to prove his line of descent from the de THIERRY family. As a consequence of this the ancestors stated must be view with scepticism. In the absence of real evidence circumstantial evidence is only acceptable when a specific statement is collaborated by repetition of the same statements by a number of unrelated sources. Any Family tree that deviates from this formula is worthless.

A comment made about the Baron Charles Philippe de THIERRY and attributed to the Author of "Sovereign Chief A Biography of Baron de THIERRY Mr J D REESIDE who said "When de Thierry had a pen in his hands he could transport himself into a world of Fantasy - He could write and believe the most outrageous fancies and indulge in the most unscrupulous inventions."
