Evening Post newspaper 24 February 1876

Mr Joseph Ames new Provincial Hotel at the Upper Hutt was opened formally yesterday by a most excellent luncheon at which a large number of our leading citizens were present. Mr George Crawford, MPC, presided and Mr Cruickshank's acted as vice-chairman. The chairman proposed the health of the host, who acknowledged the compliment in appropriate terms. Mr Dransfield proposed the health of Sir Julius Vogel in a speech of high encomium. When loyal, patriotic, and local toasts had been proposed and duly honoured, the company separated, after a very pleasant meeting. An open supper was given in the evening to the Government labourers and working men generally, who evidently appreciated it highly. Mr

Ames deserves praise for having established one of the best hotels in the province, and we hope that it will bring him in not only credit but cash.

The opening of the Provincial Hotel, Upper Hutt, Mr Joseph Ames proprietor, was celebrated on Wednesday by a gathering of friends at a capital spread. There were about forty gentlemen from town present, and it is not too much to say that the affair was more than a success. The company comprised individuals capable of doing justice to such an occasion, and of imparting to it a character of heartiness that made everything extremely pleasant, and as the preparations of the host were on a most liberal and refined scale, there was nothing wanting. Mr George Crawford occupied the chair, Mr. Cruickshank, a resident of long standing in the Upper Hutt, being in the vice-chair. Among those present were many of the oldest inhabitants of the province. The usual preliminary toasts having been honoured, Mr Crawford proposed the health of our host, a son of one of the very earliest settlers in New Zealand, and Mr Ames having suitably responded, Mr Dransfield gave then the health of Sir Julius Vogel, making an excellent speech, in which he commented favourably upon the scheme of public works inaugurated by the Premier, and spoke in glowing terms of the prosperity that had arisen out of the scheme. Mr Cruickshank responded to the toast, the Upper Hutt Settlers. The toast of The Ministry followed. Mr Griffiths then proposed The Superintendent, Inspector Atchison responding. In the evening the railway employees and others engaged in the district were treated to a spread, which was done ample justice to, and conviviality and general enjoyment prevailed. Of the hotel itself, which Mr Ames has just erected, we may say that it is unequalled by any house outside the city, and is excelled by few within it. It affords ample accommodation for travellers and families visiting the district, and we have no hesitation in predicting for the proprietor a prosperous business career.

New Zealand Mail newspaper 06 May 1876

The people of the Upper Hutt have determined upon holding sports there on the Queen's Birthday. Mr Smith manager of the railways having offered to run excursion trains on that occasion on condition of sports being held there. Mr Ames of the Criterion Hotel has himself in the matter and preparations are to be made for outdoor amusement on a proper scale. Should they succeed the Upper Hutt will receive a good number of visitors from Wellington city.

We learn that Mr Joseph Ames of the Provincial Hotel Upper Hutt has arranged with Mr V Moody for the lease of the Lincoln's Inn Hotel on the site of the old Crown and Anchor on Lambton Quay the building of which is to be pushed on so as to be completed in time for the quarterly licensing meeting in December next. We cannot imagine the reason that induced Mr Moody to change the name of the hotel but the new building will greatly improve the appearance of the locality. Mr Ames is well known as one of the best boating men in Wellington and will no doubt be welcomed back by his old comrades of the Star Club. We wish him every success.

(Reference RGO NZ death registration 1917 folio website 1917/6899 age 72 born about 1845)

Grey River Argus newspaper 19 December 1917

After a long illness, Mr Joseph Ames, died at his late, residence, Ellice Street Wellington, some days ago. Mr Ames was the third son of the late James Ames, and was born in Kaikoura in 1844. His father was trading in New Zealand waters in the year 1838-1839, and in 1840 he established a whaling station at Kaikoura and lived, there until his death in 1850. Mr Joseph Ames spent some time on the Otago and Thames goldfields. He took part in the Maori War as a mounted trooper under Captain Leatham. For some time he was a Civil Servant. He was a good sport and took an active part in rowing, being a member of the Dolly Varden crew. In the past few years he had taken an interest in horse racing and for some years he managed the totalisator for the Wellington Racing Club, when the races were held at the Lower Hutt. He leaves a widow, but no family. Mr J James Ames City Valuer, and Mr Horace Ames of Plimmerton are brothers, and Mrs Buck of Paekakariki a sister
