Accident – Yesterday afternoon an accident occurred to a little girl the daughter of Mr N Gooder which we regret to say may possibly be attended with serious consequences. The children attending Mrs Mudgway's school in Ingestre Street, on leaving her date are supposed to have startled some horses grazing them by the road side, causing one to kick little Gooder on the head. The child was conveyed home and medical assistance sent for but on making enquiries last night we were sorry to learn that she continued insensible.

#The late melancholy accident at the Hutt - An inquest was held at the Hutt on Monday last on the bodies of Eliza Mudgway and Gus Johnson who were drowned in the Hutt river on the previous Saturday. The following evidence was taken Stephen Mudgway, father of the deceased, Eliza Mudgway sworn, deposed - On Saturday night last I brought up my two daughters to the play at the Lower Hutt after being there some time, the nose of Eliza Mudgway began to bleed, so that I took her out of the tent I then left her for a short time she asked for a pocket handkerchief from her cousin, who had been with us, and went in search of him she was quite a stranger to that part of the river it was a very dark night when I returned I missed her I heard a splash in the water, and was told that my daughter, Eliza Mudgway, had fallen into the river I saw the deceased. Gustavus Johnson, who was near at the time, throw off his clothes and jump into the river he caught hold of my daughter they drifted down the stream for a time, and then he attempted to cross to the other side when he got about three quarters of the way across I lost sight of them I never saw either of them again till they were taken out of the water, dead the deceased, Elizabeth Mudgway, was taken out on Sunday, and the deceased, Gustavus Johnson, on Monday. Mary Ann Mudgway, sister of the deceased Eliza Mudgway, sworn, deposed - On Saturday night I accompanied my sister to the play at the Lower Hutt she was sick, and her nose began to bleed she went out, and I followed her I saw her walk over the bank side into the river she screamed out for her mother to come and take her out of the river - I called my father, I did not see the deceased, Gustavus Johnson, jump into the water, but I saw him after he was in, and saw him trying to get to my sister. I then went round by the Hutt Bridge to the other side of the river that is all I saw until after my sister was taken out on Sunday. By a Juror - I was about five yards from my sister when she stepped into the water. Nathaniel Valentine, sworn, said - On Saturday evening, 27th July, I was at the play, and heard a cry of my sister in the river I ran to the river bank and soon perceived something floating on the water a number of people came to the river side, and some shouted for the deceased, Gustavus Johnson, to jump in and rescue the girl I did not see him jump in, but I saw him swimming after the body I went a short distance down the stream to a ledge of clay which stands out into the stream, hoping to render him some assistance a few yards before they reached me I saw the deceased, Gustavus Johnson, lay hold of the deceased, Eliza Mudgway I shouted to him to make towards me I held out my hand as he neared me, but he was beyond my reach, and he made no attempt to get hold of my hand; he never spoke during the time he was in the water when I found I could not reach him I told him to make for the other side, which he did he had hold of the deceased, Eliza Mudgway, then I watched him till he got about half way across I then heard a heavy plunge, and thought he had got his footing at the other side I then ran over the bridge to the other side of the river, but could not see any signs of them I saw the deceased. Gustavus Johnson, taken out of the water today dead. William Henry Tucker, sworn, deposed - I heard of the deceased being drowned on Saturday night I procured a canoe, and came up the river in search of the bodies after some time I discovered the body of Eliza Mudgway, fast on a stump, about five feet below the surface of the water I got her out, and took her ashore. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning reference Paper past website Evening Post newspaper 31 July 1867 page 2

Mr George Mudgway an old resident of the Lower Hutt committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging himself. The deceased who was 88 years of age was a widower. He went to bed shortly after 10 o'clock on Tuesday night. At half past four on Wednesday morning he got up and told Mrs Morris his housekeeper that he was going outside. Between six and seven Mr Benjamin Mudgway who lives next door found his father hanging by the neck outside the door of an outhouse. He cut the body down and sent for the Dr Purdy who pronounced life to be extinct. An inquest is to be held. The deceased had been worried over some business in connection with his old age pension but he had not led any one to believe that he intended to take his life.

Another respected old settler passed away at the Wellington Hospital on Thursday in the person of Mrs Charles Mudgway whose name is associated with many historic events connected with this city. Her husband Mr Charles Mudgway arrived with his parents in the ship Catherine Stuart Forbes in Wellington in June 1841 and was married here some years afterwards. They resided at Pipitea Point for many years and whilst living there the rebel natives looted their dwelling place. Afterwards Mr Mudgway removed to the Hutt where he took part in fighting the Maoris and claims to have shot the first Maori in an engagement under Lieutenant White of the 96th Regiment. Mr Mudgway also formed part of the gang who were engaged in making the first road undertaken by the New Zealand Company – namely from Pipitea Point to Kaiwarra. His wife whose deceased we are noting was with him during his early trails, and for the last 26 years they have been living together in Porirua. We believe we are correct in stating that Mrs Mudgway who was a daughter of the late Mr Sunnex of the Hutt leaves a host of relatives, eight of her own progeny, 32 grandchildren, 50 great grandchildren, making altogether 90 descendent, not including other near relatives all of whom reside in the Wellington Provincial District. This is an excellent record.

#The Otaki Races Two Fatal Accidents – We received the following sad intelligence from our Otaki correspondence last evening – A most melancholy accident happened today at the Otaki Races in which a young man named Charles Mudgway met his death by coming in collision with some young women riding round the course. The accidents happened after the races were over reference Papers past website Manawatu Herald newspaper 23 January 1880 page 2

#The Fatal accidents at Otaki - In last Issue we were able to announce little more than the bare fact that two fatal accidents had occurred after the Otaki races. We are able now to lay further particulars before our readers. The first case is that of a man named Charles Mudgway. It appears that he was riding at a hand gallop round the course, and was met by four ladies on horseback, viz, two of the Misses McDonald of Horowhenua, Miss Jenkins of Otaki, and Miss Cameron, who was on a visit to Mr Jenkins, to whom she is related. Mudgway was riding along full tear, whilst the ladies were going along at a sharp canter. The former, being unable to guide his horse past the ladies, struck Miss Jenkins on the leg, and glanced off, meeting Miss Cameron, both horses and riders striking violently. Miss Cameron and Mudgway both fell to the ground, and the former dropping on his head, a concussion of the brain ensued from which he died in a short time. Miss Cameron was badly bruised, and was compelled to take to her bed at once, but we hear is now improving rapidly. Mudgway was until lately a resident of the Hutt. He was a 3sout man, 35 years of age. He was a widower, having some time since lost his wife, and by his death five children, all boys are orphaned. An inquest was hold on Friday, concerning the death of Mudgway reference Papers past website Manawatu Herald newspaper 27 January 1880 page 2

#Divorce Court – Morris v Morris - The divorce suit of Morris v Morris, the wife's petition for divorce from her husband on the grounds of cruelty and adultery, was heard before Mr Justice Richmond yesterday. Jemima Morris deposed that she was married to Thomas Wilson Morris at Wellington in March 1879. She was 13½ years old then. Four children were born of the marriage. After the ceremony the couple resided at Johnsonville for about nine years, then lived three years in the Wairarapa, and returned to Johnsonville, subsequently going to Levin. Petitioner left her husband in February 1892. He was always growling at and beating her, and he insisted on her going, and took her things to the railway station, she had only a few shillings, and so left the children with him, and herself took service at Gisborne for nearly three years. Charles Mudgway, witness's father, wrote to her from Johnsonville that her husband had married again, and she returned from Gisborne to try and get possession of the children. Respondent came down to Johnsonville, and went to see her at the residence of her niece Mrs Wm. Fisher, but her husband used such bad language that witness would not speak to him. She obtained an order from the Chief Justice for the custody of her children, and secured them. She found that her husband was living with Mary Ann Brockley. A fortnight after their marriage Morris boxed witness's ears because she would not cross a plank over a creek without his help, and he was always threatening to thrash her. About a fortnight before witness left him he slapped her because she objected to his staying out late at eight. He got drunk once or twice a week, and if she protested would box her ears. They lived in a slab whare near the railway line, and were often short of food. There were eight of her family, all married. His Honour - Judging from your case, they went off quickly in your family. Petitioner said her father had offered a home to herself and her children. She moved to secure custody of the children as soon as she could afford to do so. Lilian Maude Morris, aged 15 years, eldest daughter of petitioner, deposed that some time after her mother's departure from Levin witness was sent by her father to Palmerston to bring Mrs Brockley a widow, down to live with them. Her father and Mrs Brockley went to Wellington to be married, her father telling witness that if she was very good he would bring home a new mother to her. A marriage feast was "kept up" at Ohau, and Mrs Brockley came back as Mrs Morris. Petitioner, recalled, said that on returning to Levin a short time back to endeavour to secure the children, she found respondent had built a better house. He was out, and Mrs Brockley, who did not know witness, told her anything she had to say had best be said to her, as she

- was Mrs Morris. The case was adjourned to enable the certificate of marriage to be put in. There was no appearance by or on behalf of respondent, and the facts were not denied reference Papers past website Evening Post newspaper 13 June 1895 page 2
