

Centenary of Care 100 years of the Red Cross in New Zealand 1915 - 2015

The New Zealand Red Cross organisation began with the outbreak of World War One. The first official meeting was held on the 10 November 1915. The Red Cross volunteers were kept busy during the war period and specially in 1918 with the influenza epidemic.

The year 1863 saw the foundation of the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva. This was as a direct result of the Battle of Solferino in Italy with all its cruelty and carnage. Since 1863 the Red Cross has brought aid on a totally impartial basis to millions of people in peace and war alike. People of all nationalities, races and creeds have been given life and hope through the humanitarian service of the Red Cross.

The Upper Hutt Branch of the British Red Cross Society was proposed by Dr F W Kemp in March 1922. The Upper Hutt Branch of the Red Cross celebrated its golden jubilee (on 07 June 1972) with a church parade and luncheon.

Some Golder descendants associated with the New Zealand Red Cross organisation.

Theresa Isabela Golder was the daughter of Jane & John Golder. In 1926 Theresa was a V.A.D. (Voluntary Aid Detachment) nurse and member of the Upper Hutt Red Cross.

Irene Elizabeth Wilmshurst (nee Golder) was the grand-daughter of Jane & John Golder. In 1988 Irene received the Q.S.M. (Queen Service Medal) for her voluntary service to the community over many years and in various fields including the Red Cross.

Irene's father Bertram James Golder was the brother of Theresa Isabella Golder. The brother and sister grew up together in the Golder's cottage.

#Wedding - The marriage took place recently at St David's Presbyterian Church Upper Hutt of Agnes Johnston (Nessie), only daughter of Mr and Mrs A Anderson, "Rothes Lodge" Wallaceville, to James Alexander, elder son of Mr and Mrs J Ross, of St Kilda Dunedin. pink chrysanthemums and carnations. The bridegroom's brother, Mr George Ross (Dunedin), was best man, and Mrs E Gellen presided at the organ. A reception was held in the Druids' Hall, Upper Hutt, where some seventy guests were received by Mrs A Anderson, who wore a nigger brown costume and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of autumn tinted flowers.
