Particulars concerning the state of De Lessep's enterprise on the Isthmus of Panama received from Aspinwall on December 3rd are published in the New York World. It is now stated that the parties who accepted the contract of excavating 7,000,000 cubic meters on the Panama side of the canal in the Rio Grande section have abandoned the work. A leading canal engineer loudly condemns the unloading of a vast quantity of ancient and wholly useless machinery on the canal. There are thousands and thousands of canal plant there now old Suez Canal stock the greater part of which is not worth the amount for transportation paid on it. Captain Phillips of the Nicaragua Canal Company passed through Aspinwall recently. He speaks with the utmost confidence of the future of that project. It was stated in New York on the 28th of December that the De Lesseps Company is negotiating with a constructor there for the building of the Panama Canal.

Our Letters – Our London Letter – London May 2 - “My family” said M de Lesseps “is of Scottish origin and I stand alone in France bearing the name of Lesseps.” He went on: “The Lasseps, Lessels, and Lascelles are Scottish names. One of my ancestors was in the regiment of the Scottish Guards in France, and he settled in Bayonne. His name was Bertrand de Lesseps captain of gendarmerie and he was entrusted with the duty of arresting Henry IV., but instead of arresting him he disobeyed the orders of Henry III., and let Henry IV escape. It was since then that the family remained in the services of the Kings of France. When James II died at St Germain a Lesseps had been attached to the person of the King by Louis XIV of France. The works of my ancestors have been very useful to me for the cutting of the Sues Canal.” – (Applause).

Multum in Parvo - M. de Lesseps boasts that his family is Scotch; that in Scotland there are Lesseps and Lessels, but in France now of his own name besides himself and his numerous family; and that the Cathedral of Edinburgh was constructed by an architect named Lesseps, who was one of his ancestors.

Passing Notes - M. de LESSEPS told the Scottish people when he was over in Great Britain lately on his canal business that he was half a Scotchman himself. His great-grandfather, or some remote ancestor, he said, was a true Caledonian, and his own name, Lesseps, a Frenchified form of that distant progenitor's cognomen. This must have been highly flattering to the North Britons, as it must have confirmed their belief, if indeed it required any confirmation that most eminent foreigners are of Scotch extraction.

I recommend the publication "Ferdinand de Lesseps a biographical study" by Charles Beatty. In 1451 the family of ESSEP or LESSEP was represented by one of the principal citizens of Bayonne. The first de LESSEPS is believed to have been Bertrand de LESSEPS/LESSELS. At the back of the publication is a list of Ferdinand de LESSEPS ancestors.

When Count Ferdinand de LESSEPS the Engineer of the Suez, and Panama Canal was in Edinburgh, as the guest of the University, during their Tercentenary Celebrations, he stated he was proud of having Scotch blood in his veins as the founder of his family went to France from Priestleys in Fifeshire to join the Garde Ecosaise.

The Count afterwards called upon John LESSELS, Architect there, and claimed distant kinship, explaining that the name had been corrupted into LESSEPS in France. He was born at Versailles 19th November 1805 and died 8th December 1894. He stated that his father, mother, grandmother and great grandfather (Martin de LESSEPS) lived to great ages.

New Zealand Herald newspaper 07 February 1884

Own Correspondent January 30 – Lesseps a Scotchman - An English paper remarks "Scotchmen will be more than ever convinced that no good thing can come out of any place ___ (north or south) of the Tweed by the results of the genealogical researches which M de Lesseps has just made known. Like so many other Frenchmen he is really it seems a Scotchman. In Scotland there were many Lasseps and Lessels, Lesseps and Lasses, while in France there were none of his name except himself and his own family. One of his direct ancestors was with James II at St. Germain and it was at that time that his family settled in France. The discovery of his Scotch origin seems to have made a great impression on M de Lesseps for he referred to the matter at considerable length twice over during his visit to Newcastle and indeed some of the details are highly interesting from the point of view of hereditary genius. M de Lesseps is proud of being a diplomatist and the conduct of one of his ancestors who was ordered to arrest Henry IV of France but who instead of arresting the King forewarned him of his danger may perhaps be taken to show that diplomacy runs in the family. So although M de Lesseps modestly disclaims being himself in any sort an engineer it is interesting to know that one of his ancestors followed a technical profession and that according to the vestry records still preserved the Cathedral of Edinburgh was built by an architect named Lesseps." #M de Lesseps (Ferdinand) is rather proud of a strain of British blood in his veins. When he was in Edinburgh a few years ago, as the guest of the university during the tercentenary celebration, M de Lesseps explained that the founder of his house was a Scotsman who went to France as a soldier of fortune, joining the famous Scots Guard, which figures so largely in "Quentin Durward."
