Hutt Valley Independent newspaper 06 February 1915

Joseph McGhie On Tuesday of last week (26th January) there passed away at the Wellington Hospital one of our best known resident in the persons of Joseph McGhie. Deceased who was 56 years of age at the time of his death was born in Islington (London) on 10 August 1858 and landed at Dunedin with his parents in 1874 from the ship "Hindustan" in which they had voyaged from England. He was a boiler-maker by trade and for four years held the position of head boiler at the Petone Railway Workshops. On 19 February 1881 he married Sarah Emma BARNES (also an Islington) at Wellington. He took up his residence in the Upper Hutt district some 29 years ago. Deceased's last illness was of six months duration necessitating his entering the Wellington Hospital last December to undergo an operation necessitated by an internal complication and remained there under treatment for a fortnight. He re-entered the institution on 07 January and remained until his death which was caused by haemorrhage of the bowels. The interment on 28 January took place at Karori by expressed wish of deceased – his father, the late James McGhie being buried. Deceased's family comprises six sons and one daughter (all living) who with his widow and eleven grandchildren mourn his loss.

#A married man named Leonard McGhie aged thirty was the victim of an unusual accident in the Akatarawa bush on Monday afternoon. He had almost felled a tree when another which had been cut through by his mate fell across a vine and this tautening caused McGhie's tree to bound from the stump and pin him to the ground fracturing both his legs. Two hours had to be spent in sawing through the log before the unfortunate man could be released. He was conveyed to the Wellington Hospital to which he was admitted at 2 am yesterday reference Papers past website New Zealand Times newspaper 16 September 1914 page 2
#A serious accident occurred in the Akatarawa bush on Monday afternoon whereby a bushman named Leonard McGhie had both his legs fractured through a tree falling on him. The sufferer had a terrible time as before he could be released the tree had to be sawn through a process which occupied two hours. He is now doing as well as can be expected reference Papers past website Wairarapa Daily Times newspaper 16 September 1914 page 4
